When the Pennesseewassee sent down a bashful proposition to compete with the Bowdoin for the Ball, the college team was at first inclined to regard the challenge as a piece of effrontery and take no notice of it; finally, however, they decided to let them come and receive their punishment, offering to play the following Saturday week.

On Wednesday, March 12, the club met with Mrs. Minto Flagg. Refreshments of fancy cookies were served and a very pleasant afternoon spent. It was decided to postpone the meeting for four weeks for better traveling.

KNOW YOUR AGENT BEFORE BUYING

The Chamber of Commerce of Portland, in a bulletin from the Better Business Department, sounds a warning against the advertising solicitors not only "doing" Portland, but their activities may extend to other sections of Maine.

Complaints have been lodged against certain collection agencies. Trade associations, rate and overcharge adjustments call for a warning not to sign contracts without investigation.

Keep an eye on the peddler, is emphasized. Before buying merchandise from strangers, look 'em up.

No solicitation is so important but that it can wait until facts are secured, and none should be even entertained until it can be proven, says the bulletin.

You can't count your chickens before they're hatched, if an incubator or hen is used, but you can count them if day-old chicks are bought from a good hatchery. Each year more and more farmers are buying day-old chicks instead of incubating the eggs. If you buy chicks, be sure to get them from a reliable breeder, who has healthy stock and whose hatchery is managed under sanitary conditions. Chicks should be ordered early, so they can be delivered in March or April. Late-hatched chicks rarely do as well as early hatched ones.

The Silver Ball

The Early Days of Baseball in the Old Home Town

By Dr. Charles A. Stephens

At the time of this bit of history, baseball was in its infancy, or at least no more than a few years old. It was preceded by "Four-old Cat" (why "cat"? I never knew, unless cat stood for cat stick, a former name for bat stick) which was used to play on Fast Day afternoons in the old Squire's south field.

Four-old Cat had this advantage, it could be played by as few as four, whereas the new baseball required eighteen at least, to say nothing of "spares" to take the place of disabled or sick players. To get eighteen players together was always a difficulty in the sparsely populated country.

But at the Liberal Institute—which answered as High School and fitting school at the home village in our town—the students had contrived to select a baseball nine to play according to the new rules of the game; and although there were no competitive ball clubs as yet, friendly games with other nine in neighboring towns began to be indulged in.

Such were the humble beginnings of baseball in Maine. No one then suspected or even dreamed of what a giant among sports, baseball was yet to grow. There were then no leagues, no professional baseball players. The players received no salaries. Merely playing ball was glory enough, without emoluments.

That a future Babe Ruth, or a Jimmie Fox, would ever draw a salary of seventy-five thousand dollars a year for merely playing ball, was an event so monstrous as to be wholly incredible.

But it is human nature to desire something to show for a victory; and ere long an enthusiastic friend of baseball, whose name I have forgotten, devised a remarkable trophy of success for the winners of the game—nothing less than a Silver Ball.

This was a ball of solid silver, regulation size, bearing an appropriate motto in the space below the date and name of the victorious nine. This was to be borne home with them to exhibit in token of their prowess abroad. It was a truly popular trophy with nothing sordid or otherwise suggestive of filthy lucre.

The regulations attending the prize were that—if the baseball club winning it could retain it against all challenges during three successive years—it should be theirs in perpetuity.

We have in our home burg a beautiful lake bearing the long Indian name of Pennesseewassee, which is not wholly unknown to you, but to do so you must learn a native speak it. As was natural we named our baseball club, The Pennesseewassee.

This nine had been in existence about six months at the time of my story. Sumner Burnham was our Captain with his younger brother, Silas, short-stop. Jim Danforth was Catcher, Clarence Smith played Second Base and Ellis Hersey, Third Base, while Warren Bartlett was Right Field.

We possessed little skill in the technique of the new game, but were strong at the bat, particularly Sumner Burnham. Sum, as we called him, was an original Babe Ruth at batting, while Silas, a power hitter, was only a little behind Sumner in this essential of the game. All three split a few batsticks as often as they played.

Bowdoin College, at Brunswick down by the sea, was supposed at that time to have the best baseball team in the state. This nine had held the Silver Ball for a year or more and had fair to do so indefinitely. Their pitcher, Bangs, was in the new league of the epoch, held to be a "humbler."

When the Pennesseewassee sent down a bashful proposition to compete with the Bowdoin for the Ball, the college team was at first inclined to regard the challenge as a piece of effrontery and take no notice of it; finally, however, they decided to let them come and receive their punishment, offering to play the following Saturday week.

On Wednesday, March 12, the club met with Mrs. Minto Flagg. Refreshments of fancy cookies were served and a very pleasant afternoon spent. It was decided to postpone the meeting for four weeks for better traveling.

Oscar Lewis, who has been working at Reuben Gilkey's, has been at home the past week on account of sickness.

Earl Lewis has been helping Warren Flagg cut wood for Joe Strout.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Boland and son, Fred, of West Roxbury, Mass., were at their summer residence, Green Acres Inn, near the week end. They had as guests, E. G. Leighton of Boston, James Otis of West Roxbury, Mass., and A. L. Cole of Providence, R. I.

Mrs. Mamie Trask of Turner is assisting in the home of C. P. Trask while his wife is convalescing from her recent illness.

Edwin Thorne visited relatives at Canton, last week. He is in good health this winter.

The college team began to look troubled. Finally their fielders discovered the ball among some cabbages and play was resumed. Our Jim Danforth at the bat. Pitcher Bangs now resolved to take no chances and pitched a swift knee high ball; but Jim struck it so high in the air that it whizzed down through the right fielder's hands and Jim made a second fielder's base.

Smith came next to the bat. Bangs gave him a high swift ball, but Smith reached it and drove another flyer clean into the Harpswell road.

The Pennys made four runs during that first inning.

And now the Bowdoin had wholly ceased to smile. They whispered anxiously together, more anxiously still when at length they came to the bat and two struck out. One lost first base.

It was the turn of the Penny's to smile. "Gosh, Boys, I believe we can get that Ball", Sum said to Jim, and Jim passed the whispered word along to the rest of the Pennys.

With the first stroke in the second inning, Captain Burnham split the bat. It flew in two pieces while the ball spun a little to one side and to the top of a big pine tree to the right of the grounds, then came whizzing down into the outfielder's hands.

The umpire shouted "fielder's choice." But Jim Danforth, who batted next, sent the ball into the Harpswell road again and went to third base on it. Clare Smith then brought him clean home and got to second base himself, with a flyer.

That was about the way the whole game proceeded. The Collegians played better ball than we did; but the Pennys outbatted them completely. The score, I believe, was 23 to 9, in favor of the Pennys. The Bowdoin team surrendered the Silver Ball with as good grace as could be expected.

We carried it home in triumph, and for a year thereafter it was exhibited in the show-case of the town's store, to the delight of the local populace of the village.

Very soon after this, the Athletics, a Portland team, sent a challenge to the Pennys, to come and play a game on their Portland ground. Our nine accepted and outwashed them—again by tremendous batting. Next the Androscoggin of Lewiston challenged them and were in turn worsted in a 7 to 4 score.

The Pennys were at present renowned throughout the State as the insuperable batters. No club dared challenge them and they held the Silver Ball for three years and bade fair to retain it in person even after three years of possession had been lengthened to five. It was remarked humorously by The Bowdoin Bugle that the Pennesseewassee would not doubt be able to retain the ball because nobody could spell the name of the nine.

Meantime, however, the two Burnhams, Sumner and Silas, migrated to Lincoln, Nebraska; Ellis Hersey died, and Jim Danforth, after suffering a bad cold, resigned from the club. Inferior players now came to take their places, and toward the end of the fifth year possession of the Silver Ball, the Pennys suffered their first defeat from the hands of the Sons of Portland, and were compelled to surrender the trophy.

During the following ten years baseball appears to have declined in public interest. The game—like others—had its ups and downs. The last known of the Silver Ball it was still held by the Sons at Portland.

And it somehow passed from sight. One account has it that the trophy fell prey to a thief. Another story is that the donor reclaimed it in disgust and melted it down for old silver. Still another tale has it that some crafty person is concealing it against the time when the steadily growing fame of baseball will give it high value as a curio.

This is as much as I have been able, at present writing, to learn as to the fate of the Silver Ball. If it ever comes to light might it not be given belittlingly to Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis?

Our County of Oxford

By Ralph M. Bacon

Every section of Maine has its attractions and advantages. Aroostook, with its vast agricultural resources, Hancock with its Bar Harbor and other resorts, York, with its fine beaches and Cumberland, containing Portland, the beautiful metropolis of our state. We are loyal and proud of every section of Maine from Kittery to Fort Kent, but to those of us who are living, or have lived among the "Oxford Hills," with the beautiful mountains, lakes and forests all about us, we can truly say, "this is the very best part of Maine."

Our Oxford Hills are the scenic wonderland of Maine. One only needs to stand at the crest of the hill near Poland Springs and behold a glorious sunset to be convinced. Away to the north, as far as the eye can reach, rise the hills of Oxford County in all their majesty, low hills at first, but rising into mountains and at the north "Old Spec" stands guard over all. Where can one find a better beach for picnicking than the scene before us, with the forests, lakes and valleys, with here and there peaceful farms and picturesque villages.

As good citizens, how can we help develop this beautiful section of Maine? Let us begin in our home town, for Oxford County cannot make progress unless each little town is doing its part. Let us strive to make our own town a better town in every way we can. Good schools are about the most valuable asset a town can possess. Our schools may be good but let us strive to make them better. Let us strive to make our town have good roads, not only good state roads, but good country roads, connecting the farms with the village center and with the state roads. Let us keep our farms and farm buildings in good and attractive as possible. In these days of the auto a town is judged by its farms as well as its villages.

The citizens of each little town should unite their efforts in an organization for promoting the progress and upbuilding of the community. If our town lacks such an organization, we should talk the matter up with our fellow citizens, get busy and work to bring it about. Make our own town so attractive that people from away will want to come often to buy goods of our merchants, stock of our farmers and will want to send their children to our most excellent schools.

There is no town in Oxford County so small, but it is possible for its citizens to do something to make it more attractive, more prosperous and a better town in which to live. In the great movement for state development which is growing so fast all over Maine the citizens of Oxford County will be found doing their part by making each little town more prosperous and attractive, striving to place this section of our Pine Tree State first in progress and development.

COMPARE VALUES BEFORE YOU BUY AN AUTOMOBILE

Low charges for distribution of the new Ford save you at least $50 to $75 in addition to the many savings in making the car

THESE are days when every dollar counts. The period of reckless spending is over. People are going back to the good old-fashioned principles of thrift and economy. Value is again being carefully considered.

Nowhere is this more important than in the selection of an automobile. For the purchase of a car represents a considerable investment. It should not be decided on hurriedly, but only after analyzing every important factor that concerns cost, value and performance. The time to do this is before buying—not afterward when it is too late.

ON THE basis of cost, performance and the actual comparative worth of every part, the new Ford is a value far above the price you pay. It is made of better materials and with greater care and accuracy because of the recognized efficiency and economy of Ford manufacturing methods.

The value of these methods is known and understood by millions of people. It is not generally realized, however, that these same principles of efficiency and economy are applied also to every step in the distribution of the Ford car. The low cost of selling, financing time payments, etc., means a direct saving to you of at least $50 to $75 in addition to the money saved by Ford economies in making the car. Here are three reasons why this is so.

(1) The Ford dealer does business on a smaller margin of profit because of the greater number of cars he sells. His discount or commission is the lowest of any automobile dealer. The difference in your favor, ranging from 25% to nearly 50%, comes right off the price you pay for the car.

(2) The Ford charges for financing are low.

(3) No expensive extra equipment is needed when you buy a Ford. The car leaves the factory ready for use. The f.o.b. price includes a Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield and an extra steel-spoke wheel, in addition to four Houdaille double-acting shock absorbers and fully enclosed four-wheel brakes. Any accessories you may wish for your individual taste are sold considerably below the usual prices. None of these charges for selling, financing or accessories is marked up or increased to cover a high trade-in allowance on a used car.

Get all the facts, therefore, before you buy and figure out just what you are getting for your automobile dollars. Go beyond the f.o.b. price and find out how much more you pay the dealer than the dealer pays at the factory. Analyze the used-car allowance. Compare all charges—item for item—value for value.

WHEN you do this you will have a new appreciation of what the Ford Motor Company and Ford dealers are doing to keep down the cost of Ford cars. You will also know why it is possible to put so much real value into the new Ford and still retain the low price. The money you pay goes for value in the car. It is not wasted in excessive costs in manufacturing or selling.

BRIDGTON

Bridge's Vital Statistics
The vital statistics of the town of Bridge, for the year ending Dec. 31, 1929, as per town report, was sixty. The ages given are as follows:

- 1 died past 80 years.
- 17 died aged 70 years or more.
- 6 died aged 60 years or more.
- 4 died aged 50 years or more.
- 4 died aged 40 years or more.
- 1 died aged 30 years or more.
- 1 died aged 20 years or more.
- 1 died aged 10 years or more.
- 1 died under 10 years.
- 2 died under 5 years.
- 2 died under 1 year.
- 1 stillborn.

The above shows the passing of thirty-four who were past 70 years, more than half of all who died. The inference must be that Bridge is healthy, even if it is connected with the outer world by a narrow gauged railroad.

At the local town meeting held Monday, March 3, it was voted to purchase stock in the Bridge & Harrison Railway Co., to the amount of $15,000, the same to be paid in three years at the rate of $5,000 per year. Money appropriated $29,975 for schools, $16,490 for roads, $200 for observance of Memorial Day, $200 for mothers' aid, $300 for free day, $200 for nurses, and $500 for public health nurse. Officers were elected as follows:

- Selection for 8 years—Geo. E. Bryant.
- Superintendent for 3 years—Mrs. Rosa I. Burnham.

Again this year the week-end commencement, which proved such a success, is to be followed out and this will be held on the week-end of June 7th, with Commencement Day being on Monday, June 9th. For the third consecutive year the first honor part or that of valedictorian has been carried off by one of the members of the Finnish race, several of whom are attending Bridgton. There is a goodly number of this fair-haired race in Harrison and for the past few years they have been carrying away many honors at the old Academy. The first honor went to Elmer Martikainen of Harrison; salutatory to Ruth Johnson of Harrison; Address to Undergraduates to Mary Roberts of Harrison; and Oration to Alfred Hersey of Waterville. These are the four honor parts awarded by rank and it is necessary for a student to have been a member of the class for at least three years to receive the first two honor parts and for two years for the next two honor parts.

The selection of the class for the balance of the program was as follows: Class History, Theodore Woodbury of Sweden; Class Will, Eleanor Morris of Naples; Presentation of Gifts, Sarah Hersey of Waterville and James Walsh of Roxbury, Mass.; Class Prophecy, Elizabeth Millett of Waterville, and Edward O'Connell, president of the Class, from Dorchester, Mass.; Class Ode, Ruth Rounds of Waterville; Class Ivy Poem to be written by Frances Burnham of Harrison; to be delivered by Charles Bennett of Sweden. CHEVROLET

Chevrolet announces

A NEW

SERVICE POLICY

The Chevrolet Motor Company and its dealers are pleased to announce a new service policy—one of the most liberal ever offered on a low-priced automobile.

Put into force as a written agreement given to the purchaser by the Chevrolet dealer when the car is delivered—it offers the following provisions:

1 Every Chevrolet owner receives his car from the dealer in perfect condition—thoroughly lubricated, properly adjusted, and ready to operate efficiently from the first mile of ownership.

2 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free inspection and adjustment of his car at the end of the first 500 miles of usage.

3 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free inspection of his car every 1000 miles thereafter, so long as the car is in operation.

4 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free replacement of any part which may prove defective in workmanship or material, within the terms of Chevrolet's standard warranty. This includes both parts and labor.

5 Provision number 4 will be carried out by any Chevrolet dealer in the United States. As a result, the Chevrolet owner may travel to any part of the country, with assurance that the guarantee on materials and workmanship will remain in force.

This new policy constitutes proof of Chevrolet's high quality—for such liberal provisions could only be made in connection with a car built of fine materials to exacting standards of workmanship.

Back of this policy, and assuring its successful operation, is one of the most complete and efficient service organizations in the world.

There are more than 10,000 Authorized Chevrolet Dealer Service Stations in the United States alone. Each employs skilled mechanics thoroughly trained at Chevrolet Service Schools. Each has specially designed tools and machinery developed exclusively for Chevrolet service work. And each has on hand, at all times, an adequate stock of genuine Chevrolet replacement parts.

Chevrolet's flat-rate charges, including both parts and labor, are the lowest in the industry on many service operations!

In considering the purchase of a low-priced automobile, think what this service means—in terms of lasting satisfaction, as well as in increased economy.
